INFECTAL TO THE EVENING WORK, N. 1 GUTTENBURG RACE TRACE, April 7.--Racing was continued at Guttenburg to-day under very favorable conditions as to weather and

The card was an excellent one and promsted exciting sport. The attendance was fully up to the average.

The most interesting piece of track news to-day was the split between Jockey George Taylor and Trainer Jimmy Shields. The woo have been friends for many years, but certain incidents of recent happening have Taylor owned a share in Alma T. and Brook-lyn, both of which horses have been running in Shields's name and colors, and he disposed of his interest to Shields. Neither cared to talk about the split, but it is supposed that the trouble must have been serious.

The opening event to-day was for threeyear-olds that had run and not won in 1892. ady Ritham, who was formerly the Belle of m filly, was a red-hot favorite. Vocalite opened a strong second choice, but receded several points in the betting.

Vocalite was the only one in the race. She won in a canter. The favorite was second and Kingselere third.

The second race went to Leveller, an odds on favorite. Some people got even money and swore roundly when Queen of Trumps was scratched and all bets were declared off. The Queen pulled up lame in her prelim-leary.

was third.

The third race resulted in an upset. Ballaria was heavily backed all over the ring, but was never better than third in any stage of tee journey. He was bally ridden.

Bianche led all the way and won handily. Bob Arthur was second. J. Davis, the boy on Bob Arthur, claimed foul against Blanche after the third number was up, and, of course, it was not allowed.

Tips and Miscues of Owners on Their Own Race-Horses.

THE GOOD COLT WHITEHEAD.

Again Declared That Monmouth Park Will Surely Reopen.

One often hears a race-goer exclaim : " got this tip straight from the owner. Who should be better informed than he?" As a matter of fact, owners know very little of the capabilities of their own horses, and the truth of this was never better illustrated than in the second and third races at Guttenburg yesterday. The third race was for maiden two-year-olds, having for starters, among others, the colt Whitehead, owned by G. W. Poole, and the filly Eleanor, owned by Eugene Leigh. Mr. Poole thought his coit had a good chance till he heard how fast Eleanor had worked in her trials. Then he went back on his judgment and requested judges refused, and Mr. Poole went into the ring and bet $300 on Eleanor, telling his friends to do the same. Eugene Leigh thought he would beat Whitehead sure, for he formerly owned the colt and knew what he could do. He therefore bet heavily on the flity. The race was run, and in a hard-fought finish Whitehead won by a neck. The ner was put up at suction and bid up $205 over his entered setting up $205 over his entered setting sprung unexpectedly in the Raum investiga- price, his owner purchasing him.

Against this stood the purse of $350, showing a net loss of $155. Had Mr. Poole bet the in which the charge was made that Samuel | $300 on his own horse he would have quit a B. Hersey had, through Ragan & Co. of Kenhandsome winner, for Whitehead was at odds which he had to pay to retain the colt.

The colt Whitehead, by the way, is named after the genial Secretary of the Budson after the genul secretary of the Hudson county Jockey Club, to whose popularity owners and trainers at Guttenburg recently attested by presenting him with a gold watch and chain and a diamond locket. The colt while unnamed one day poked his head into the Secretary's sanctum, and one of a crowd of owners in the office excinimed jocularly, "Hello, Whitehead; come inside." Eugene Leigh, the owner of the colt, christened the colt Whitehead on the spot. The colt is a good one and will not disgrace the name.
